Overview

Trevor has conducted research, performed analysis, and drafted writings for a broad range of litigation matters. He has experience crafting and filing motions and petitions; drafting memoranda on pleading standards, statutes of limitations, and damages awards; and creating affidavits and executive orders.

Trevor honed his skills as an advocate during his work with the University of Michigan's Civil-Criminal Litigation Clinic. His ability to quickly discern important case facts, maintain a keen understanding of client goals, and effectively communicate those facts and goals has helped him achieve positive outcomes for his clients.
